
Press Kit

July 2015- June 2016

Young Audiences Arts for Learning Virginia

Welcome

Young Audiences • Arts for Learning • Virginia

Young Audiences - Arts for Learning - Virginia works every day to inspire and engage students IN and THROUGH the arts. We do this through a strategic partnership that includes: talented performing artists, passionate teaching artists and a highly qualified staff who believe in the power of the arts.

The documents in this packet are designed to provide you with information at your fingertips, to welcome you to the world of Young Audiences. We encourage you to utilize this information to familiarize yourself with Young Audiences and our mission.

If you would like clarification regarding this packet or any other media concerns, please feel free to contact Jasmine Khadrane, PR/Development Coordinator by email at PRDevelop@yav.org or by calling 757-466-7555 ext. 309.

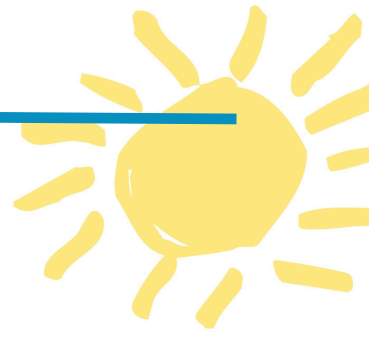

Table of Contents

Finding What You Need

1. About Young Audiences of Virginia

(page 4-8)

2. Media Coverage

(page 9-16)

3. Press Releases

(page 17-22)

4. Recent Awards

(page 23-24)

5. Photographs

(page 26-26)

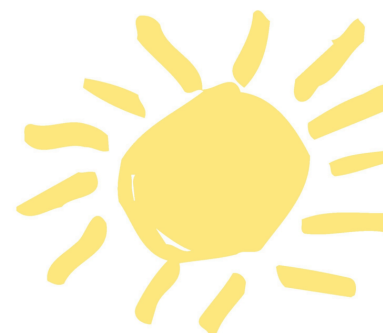

6. Logos

(page 27-28)

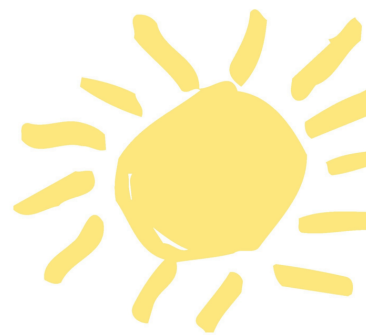

7. Other Resources

(page 29-30)

a.

About Young Audiences of Virginia

What You Need to Know about YAV

Our Mission: To inspire and engage students IN and THROUGH the arts

We believe that creativity is a critical aspect of the development of a child, and failing to develop every child's creative capacity diminishes all of us. When the arts are integrated into the core curriculum, multiple intelligences and learning styles of children are honored and valued, resulting in children learning more effectively.

We provide innovative programs and services:

Arts for Learning Literacy Programs: using the arts to impact children's literacy scores

Arts Integration Performances: specially designed in-school, arts programs aligned to core curriculum and SOLs

Early Childhood Programming: ensuring creative development at a critical time

Workshops and Master Classes: supplying in-depth learning with greater art exposure and connection to curriculum

After School Residencies and Projects: providing affirmative alternatives to performance workshops that support students learning

Professional Development for Educators: custom designed arts centered or arts integrated training for in-classroom support

Workforce Readiness and Life-Skills through the Arts: enhancing global creativity and providing effective arts-based communication training

In the 2014-2015 fiscal year, we provided more than 1,600 hours of arts-integration programming to 64,500 students, parents, artists and educators. In the last 60 years, we have impacted nearly 10 million children throughout Virginia

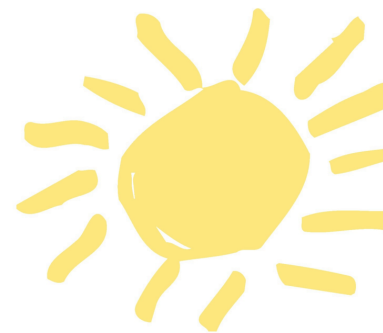

We help develop creative children who are:

Innovative Problem-Solvers—able to assess and manipulate perspectives to arrive at different solutions.

Self-Disciplined—inspired with a passion for excellence, students can self-regulate, stay focused and follow their intentionally set goals.

Expressive and Communicative—capable of giving form to thoughts and feelings in a passionate and effective way.

Our History

Celebrating over 60 Years of Arts in Education

Young Audiences of Virginia first brought arts-in-education programs to Virginia in 1955. From its humble beginnings, with a single string ensemble and a handful of volunteers, the organization has grown to nearly 200 professional artists in various artistic disciplines. In our first decade, we worked in the Hampton Roads area with the Feldman String Quartet and visited 20 schools. In the 1960s the “Norfolk” Chapter of Young Audiences was independently incorporated and our programming increased to 90 hours per year.

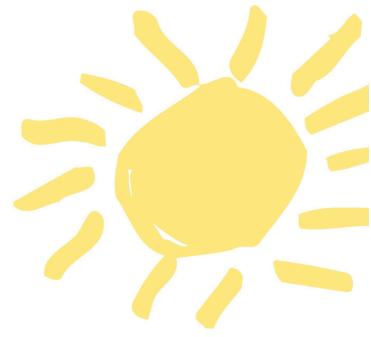

During our third decade, the 1970s, we hired our first professional staff and our programs doubled. YAV changed its name to reflect our entire service area, becoming the Virginia Chapter of Young Audiences, Inc.

In the 1980s, our programs expanded extensively into Central, Southwestern, and Northern Virginia, as well as North Carolina and West Virginia. During this productive decade, our board of directors elected to change its name to Young Audiences of Virginia, Inc.

By the 1990s, the organization had expanded significantly, providing more than 900 hours of programming in schools throughout the state. As part of a national network, Young Audiences received the National Medal of Arts, which was presented by President Bill Clinton to one of our national board members, Yo Yo Ma, at the White House. During this critical decade of our history, we began to integrate our programming fully into the Virginia Standards of Learning (SOLs) mandated by the State Department of Education.

Now in our 60th year, we are the largest arts-in-education organization in Virginia. We provided over 1,600 program hours last year and reached more than 64,500 students, parents, artists and educators. A significant amount of our service hours now include in-depth, in-school and after-school artist in residence programs, impacting the creative development of students in a profound way. We are also expanding our commitment to systemic change by providing quality arts integration teacher training in partnership with school systems and universities.

Top 10 Things To Know About YAV

1. YAV offers arts-in-education programming in all art forms to schools, museums, libraries and any facility invested in education through the arts.
2. YAV Artists offer in and after school performances, workshops, and residency projects to enhance core curriculum concepts.
3. All YAV programs are correlated to the Virginia Standards of Learning.
4. YAV served over 10 million students throughout Virginia since 1955.
5. YAV supports curriculum for early childhood to high school students, and all programs are pre, post and authentically assessed.
6. Students have experienced positive behavioral and motivational changes through YAV Character Education projects.
7. YAV is a non-profit organization and is one of 36 affiliates of Young Audiences Inc., making us the largest arts-in-education network in the country.
8. 70 cents of every dollar goes directly to support arts-in-education initiatives.
9. Financial support for YAV comes from 37% earned income, 27% private donations, 24% municipal grants, and 12% from foundation support.
10. You can empower students with Young Audiences programming by:
 - a. Offering your financial support
 - b. Getting involved with our Board and committees
 - c. Serve as a volunteer with our special events and help tell our story

Meet the Executive Director

Michael Kerry Williams began his musical and artistic interests at a young age as a soloist with the American Boychoir, a Broadway Artist and a Television Actor. This experience forged his love for music, arts, and his hope for all children to experience quality artistry and expression. Mr. Williams is a former educator in New York, New Jersey and North Carolina.

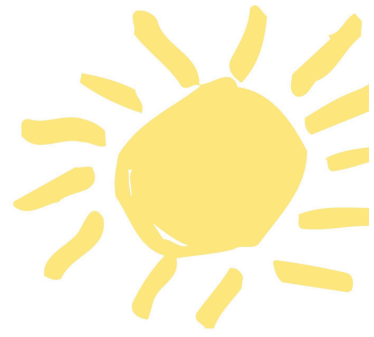

Mr. Williams served Young Audiences of Virginia as the Artistic Director since 2000. In 2013 he took on the Executive Director position and implemented new arts-integrated initiatives including Kindergarten Readiness, Teen Resilience, Summer Arts Camp Programming and enhanced Out of School Time offerings. Michael developed a strong multicultural program, providing diversity awareness and cultural understanding for young people as well as a compare and contrast educational philosophy exploring communications, similarities and common ground through the arts.

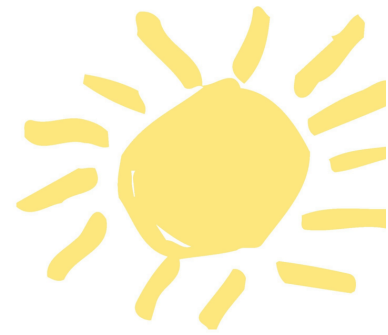

He has received arts integrated training from National Young Audiences, Inc., Kennedy Center for the Arts, and Wolf Trap. Mr. Williams holds a Bachelor of Music in Performance and a Bachelors of Music in Composition from Westminster Choir College-Princeton, as well as MM from NYU with studies at Juilliard School of Music and Boston Conservatory.

While leading Young Audiences of Virginia's staff and artists, Michael maintains his career as a classical musician and composer. His compositions and arrangements cross boundaries from children's musicals, choral works, classical art songs, instrumental and songwriting. As a vocalist, past performances include appearances with the Metropolitan Opera, New York City Opera, Virginia Opera, Atlanta Opera, Augusta Opera, Charleston opera, Carolina Opera, Spoleto Festival, Glimmerglass, Bucks County Players, Encore Theatre, Westminster Choir, and the New York Choral Society to name a few. He has performed under the baton of Leonard Bernstein, Zubin Mehta, Ricardo Mutti, Hugh Wolf, John Williams, among others.

Mr. Williams is the current Chair of the Chesapeake Fine Arts Commission, is active with the Virginia Symphony Education Committee, Virginia Opera and with several regional arts organizations. He holds memberships with The Greater Hampton Roads Cultural Alliance, VMEA, American Choral Directors Association, ASCAP, and AEP.

Media Coverage

Governor Terry McAuliffe

Building a
New Virginia Economy

Search the site

About The Governor ▾ The Administration ▾ Constituent Services ▾ Policy Priorities ▾ Newsroom ▾ Executive Actions ▾

Integrity Commission

Home > Newsroom > Proclamations > Proclamation > Young Audiences of Virginia 60th Anniversary Celebration Week

Young Audiences of Virginia 60th Anniversary Celebration Week

3/15/2015

WHEREAS, Young Audiences – Arts for Learning – Virginia is celebrating 60 years of operation, first bringing arts-in-education programs to Virginia in 1955; and

WHEREAS, Young Audiences of Virginia is the leading provider of high-quality arts-in-education programming throughout the Commonwealth of Virginia, impacting 10 million students in the past 60 years; and

WHEREAS, Young Audiences of Virginia offers a variety of arts performances and workshops grounded in core curriculum, residencies for children of all ages, and professional development in arts-integration techniques that improve students' literacy skills, motivation to read, and ability to learn; and

WHEREAS, Young Audiences of Virginia implements programs utilizing visual arts, dance, theatre, music, and storytelling into social studies, language arts, science, math, and multicultural curricula, all aligned with the Virginia Standards of Learning; and

WHEREAS, Young Audiences of Virginia makes it possible for students to experience high-quality arts programming; and

WHEREAS, March 15-21, 2015, is celebrated as National Young Audiences-Arts for Learning-week across the country;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Terence R. McAuliffe, do hereby recognize March 15-21, 2015, as YOUNG AUDIENCES OF VIRGINIA 60TH ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION WEEK in our COMMONWEALTH OF VIRGINIA, and I call this observance to the attention of all our citizens.

"The Arts are Wild" at the Virginia Zoo

POSTED 2:09 PM, APRIL 22, 2014, BY HOLLY HENRY

f FACEBOOK 1

t TWITTER 3

REDDIT

P PINTEREST

in LINKEDIN

EMAIL

Norfolk, Va. – Young Audiences – Arts for Learning – Virginia brings "The Arts Are Wild," a literacy celebration through the arts, back to the Virginia Zoo Saturday, May 3, 2014, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

"The Arts Are Wild is a fantastic event bringing arts and education together to entertain and educate children of all ages," said Greg Bockheim, the Zoo's executive director. "We're thrilled to have YAV as a partner in the event again this year."

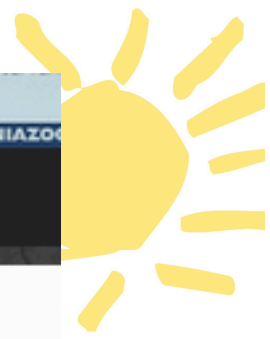

Presented by Liberty Tax, and supported by TowneBank and a host of other funders, The Arts Are Wild activities will include: musical performances by YAV artists, story boarding, comic book art, poetry, and more! All the activities are included with regular Zoo admission.

Families will also have the opportunity to meet award-winning author and illustrator Cece Bell, well known for her "Sock Monkey" and "Rabbit & Robot" children's book series. Books will be available for purchasing and signing at the event.

FILED IN: NEWS

Children dance during a puppet sing along presented by Young Audiences of Virginia artists during The Arts Are Wild - Literally event at the Virginia Zoo April 13, 2013 (Virginia Zoo photo by David Totten).

A GRACEFUL EDUCATION: HOW DANCING HELPS PREPARE STUDENTS FOR VA STANDARDS OF LEARNING

Written by Sheena Jeffers on 06 January 2015.

+ f t in Like 35

Teaching Virginia's Standards of Learning through dance is not only possible, but there is recorded data from right here in Hampton Roads showing that connecting the arts to core curriculum can make a real impact on test scores.

Young Audiences – Arts for Learning – Virginia and Todd Rosenlieb Dance recently taught fifth and sixth grade girls and boys of Portsmouth Public Schools the math SOLs through tap and hip-hop dance. The results?

Based on a review of our pre-assessment and post-assessments of students from Simonsdale Elementary School who participated in the 8-week residency, 13% of students felt more positive about dance; 6% of students felt more positive about exercise; 45% of students felt more positive about math; with, most importantly, an average increase of 40% in post-assessment scores. Of those students that felt more positive about math, 10% increased their opinion by 75%. And we aren't done yet. Churchland Primary and Intermediate School will begin the residency in January 2015.

image | Stellar Exposures

News @ ODU

ODU Home > News @ ODU > University News Archive > 2008 > February > ODUANDY_9284

ODU AND YOUNG AUDIENCES COLLABORATE FOR LEARNING LITERACY

Old Dominion University and Young Audiences of Virginia will host the Arts for Learning Conference on the ODU campus of Feb. 20-23. The conference brings arts educators and chapter representatives of the national Young Audiences network together in support of a national education initiative called Arts for Learning.

Young Audiences of Virginia is partnering with ODU's Darden College of Education to offer Arts for Learning Literacy Lessons as a continuing education course, making the university one of the first schools in the state to address new arts integration standards for teacher education.

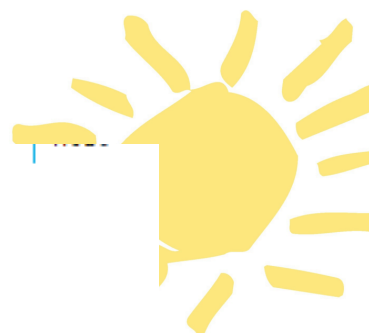

"The Darden College of Education is pleased to collaborate with Young Audiences of Virginia in hosting the national conference to help educators integrate the arts into the traditional curriculum and to learn new ways of increasing student achievement in the core curriculum through the arts," said Dean Bill Graves. "I am pleased that faculty from the Darden College of Education and the College of Arts and Letters are participating in this interdisciplinary-based approach to teaching children and youth."

The Arts for Learning Literacy Lessons represent an exciting new direction in literacy education. Leveraging proven arts integration techniques in support of specific and measurable literacy goals, this five-unit series is designed to enhance literacy instruction for students in grades three through six. Created through a national initiative by Young Audiences for use by classroom teachers with no special training in the arts, each unit focuses on building students' understanding of specific literacy objectives.

Units cover plot, character, author's choice, character perspective and more. Through the use of theater techniques, graphic novel illustration, collage, music and dance, children create finished works to share with younger students. Weaving the arts into language arts instruction helps ignite the creative process for students.

A study of students from Brunswick, N.J., Cleveland and Houston, conducted by the independent education research firm WestEd, showed that students who received the Literacy Lessons made substantial gains on tests of literacy skills and understanding. After 18 hours of instruction the A4L students had:

- two times as many story comprehension gains;
- four times as many gains on questions related to understanding "author's choice" and vocabulary;
- six times as many visualization gains; and
- more than five times the gains in understanding story elements such as the central problem.

WhyArts?

DONATE NOW to supp

TOPICS:

21st Century Skills

60th Anniversary

Advocacy

Affiliates

Artist Spotlight

Arts for Learning Online

Common Core

Community-Based

Dance

Early Childhood

Engaged Communities

Evaluation and Social Impact

From the Executive Director

Leadership Development

Lifelong Learning

Literacy

Literary Arts

Media Innovations/Digital
Media

Music

National Conference

National Core Arts
Standards

Out of School Time

Partnerships

Performance

Professional Development

Research

STEAM

STEM

Signature Initiatives

Young Audiences of Virginia ED Participates in SupportMusic Music Education Community Forum

The SupportMusic Music Education Community Forum sponsored by the NAMM Foundation, NAFME, and the John Lennon Educational Tour Bus will be rolling into the Hampton Roads Convention Center on October 21, and will focus on the topic of "Music Education in Hampton Roads." This stop is just one on the Community Forum fall tour and will feature a panel of local music education experts, including Michael Kerry Williams, the Executive Director of Young Audiences of Virginia.

The SupportMusic Community Forum is presented as part of a two day stay of the John Lennon Educational Tour bus, and is part of the award earned by the Hampton City Schools for submitting a winning video illustrating the "unique greatness" of their music education program in a contest hosted by NAMM.

The event will be free and open to the public, and will be available to those not in the area via a live webcast, starting with an 8:30am forum preview. The Forum will also feature performances by the Kecoughtan High School Jazz Band and the Armstrong Elementary School for the Arts Choir.

Click here for more information about the event or to RSVP.

Click here for more information about Young Audiences of Virginia.

Young Audiences of Virginia appears on Norfolk Perspectives to discuss our spring event, Arts Are Wild!

Young Audiences of Virginia appears on ABC13 Noon Show to discuss our 60th anniversary event, Raise a Ruckus!

Press Releases

Jasmine Khadrane
PR/Development Coordinator
PRDevelop@yav.org
757-466-7555 ext. 309

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
September 10, 2015

Raise a Ruckus for the arts!

Young Audiences of Virginia celebrates its 60th Anniversary

Norfolk, Va. - Young Audiences - Arts for Learning - Virginia celebrates its 60th anniversary event, Raise a Ruckus!, September 17, 2015 at 6 p.m. at the Norfolk Yacht and Country Club. This event is aimed to acknowledge the support we have received in the last 60 years and celebrate the future of Young Audiences of Virginia.

Sandra Parker, from ABC13, will kick off the night as special guest host and auctioneer. The evening will include Appalachian musicians, "After Jack", a paddle raise and a silent auction. All proceeds will go towards the continued efforts to bring arts-in-education programming to schools state wide.

Since 1955, Young Audiences of Virginia has been the leading provider of high quality arts-in-education programming for the state, with all programs grounded in the Virginia Standards of Learning core curriculum.

“During my 15 years with YAV, I have experienced the impact of arts-in-education programming throughout Virginia. I am happy to be a part of an organization that uses innovation and creativity to enrich the lives of children,” said Michael Kerry Williams, Executive Director of Young Audiences of Virginia.

Guests are encouraged to come dressed in country and/or black tie attire and celebrate arts-in-education with Young Audiences of Virginia. The organization is excited for its continued support during this celebratory time.

###

Young Audiences - Arts for Learning – Virginia is the leading provider of high quality arts-in-education programming in Virginia. We offer an array of arts performances and workshops grounded in Virginia’s core curriculum, residencies for children of all ages, and professional development for teachers in arts-integration techniques that improve students’ literacy skills, motivation to read, and ability to learn. Young Audiences of Virginia, Inc. is a 501(c)(3), not-for-profit.

Kendahl Craig
Development Director
(757)-446-7555

developmentdirector@yav.org

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

April 16, 2015

Young Audiences - Arts for Learning - Virginia Tackles Literacy at the Virginia Zoo

Showcase the power of fun in reading

NORFOLK, Va.— Young Audiences - Arts for Learning - Virginia is joining forces with the Virginia Zoo, for a celebration of literacy at their 3rd Annual Arts Are Wild! event on May 2, 2015 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

As one of Hampton Road's largest events, Arts Are Wild! presents dynamic artistic performances and interactive literacy activities that make reading come alive. Last year's event increased Zoo attendance by more than 27 percent which they are hoping to surpass this year.

This event encourages families to get involved in literacy with their child, for a day of fun-filled activities.

Children's literacy continues to be a growing issue within the state:

- According to the Phonological Awareness Literacy Screening (PALS) last fall in Virginia, 12.5 percent of children arrived to kindergarten without the basic literacy skills needed to succeed in school
- 57 percent of Virginia's incoming fourth graders scored below proficient reading levels
- In Virginia, children who repeat grades kindergarten through third grade cost taxpayers about $80m/year

Executive Director of Young Audiences of Virginia, Michael Kerry Williams said, "I am very proud to be a part of Arts Are Wild! We take pride in making literacy more entertaining for students and teaching families the importance of arts-for-learning."

Young Audiences of Virginia invites the community to their celebration of literacy on May 2, 2015 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. For more information, call (757)-446-7555 or email Kendahl Craig at developmentdirector@yav.org.

###

Young Audiences - Arts for Learning - Virginia uses learning through the creativity of dance, music, theater, fine arts, storytelling, digital arts - and more - to align effectively with core academic standards. We also offer Professional Development for classroom educators to illustrate and teach the use of powerful arts-integration learning techniques. The overall goal of our programs is to create arts programs that nurture children's capacity to imagine and develop critical thinking and social skills for the 21st century. For more information about Young Audiences of Virginia visit, www.yav.org.

MEDIA ADVISORY

August 4, 2015

Media Contact: Michael Kerry Williams
Executive Director
(757) 466-7555 ext. 305
executivedirector@yav.org

Young Audiences of Virginia Celebrates 60 Years of Art-in-Education

WHO: Young Audiences Virginia (YAV) will celebrate 60 years of providing art in education this year with a unique celebration that's sure to get everyone on their feet. Over the years, nearly 65,000 Virginians have been impacted by YAV performances, and this fun evening will commemorate 60 years of teaching, performing and making learning fun through the arts.

WHAT: Guests will enjoy a formal event featuring "down home" fun and Appalachian musicians After Jack. Heavy hors d'oeuvres will be served, and a paddle raise hosted by a special guest Sandra Parker, from ABC13 News/WVEC will elevate the excitement at the party.

Come dressed in country and/or black tie attire and celebrate arts-in-education with Young Audiences of Virginia!

When & Where: Sept. 17, 2015 starting at 6 p.m.

Norfolk Yacht and Country Club

7001 Hampton Blvd

Norfolk, VA 23505

Tickets: $75 general admission includes two drink tickets.

Sponsorships are still available. Call (757) 466-7555 for more information.

###

Young Audiences - Arts for Learning - Virginia uses learning through the creativity of dance, music, theater, fine arts, storytelling, digital arts - and more - to align effectively with core academic standards. We also offer Professional Development for classroom educators to illustrate and teach the use of powerful arts-integration learning techniques. The overall goal of our programs is to create arts programs that nurture children's capacity to imagine and develop critical thinking and social skills for the 21st century. For more information about Young Audiences of Virginia visit, www.yav.org.

Jenifer Chapman
Scheduling Services Director
757-466-7555 ext. 304

Lauren Jones
Public Relations Specialist
Ljones092@odu.edu

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
February 6, 2015

Young Audiences of Virginia celebrates its 60th Anniversary!
Inspiring and engaging students in and through the arts

Norfolk, Va. - For the last 60 years, students across the state of Virginia improved literacy skills, reading, and their ability to learn through arts performances and workshops. Since 1955, Young Audiences of Virginia has been the leading provider of high quality arts-in-education programming for the state, with all programs grounded in the Virginia Standards of Learning core curriculum.

“Having Young Audiences in the state of Virginia has brought numerous arts-in-learning experiences to students that wouldn’t have had the opportunity to participate without the organization. I am happy to be a part of an organization that uses innovation and creativity to enrich the lives of children,” said Beth Hazelette, President of the YAV State Board of Directors.

Young Audiences of Virginia will be honoring the organization’s accomplishments through celebratory events during all of 2015. Young Audiences is working to build its base of supporters who are involved in the organization and excited about the arts. This effort will strengthen the role the arts play in the lives and education of children statewide.

Young Audiences of Virginia will kick off its 60th Anniversary Celebration during National Young Audiences Week March 15-21, 2015. Performances and events will begin with the Celebration of the Arts, March 14, 2015, at the Children’s Museum of Virginia. For more information about getting involved in the celebration, contact Jennifer Chapman at scheduling@yav.org.

###

Young Audiences - Arts for Learning – Virginia is the leading provider of high quality arts-in-education programming in Virginia. We offer an array of arts performances and workshops grounded in Virginia’s core curriculum, residencies for children of all ages, and professional development for teachers in arts-integration techniques that improve students’ literacy skills, motivation to read, and ability to learn. Young Audiences of Virginia, Inc. is a 501(c)(3), not-for-profit.

For Immediate Release
February 3, 2015

Young Audiences Arts for Learning Virginia
Anna Green, Special Projects Director
T: 757-466-7555 X306
E: SchedulingDirector@YAV.org
www.YAV.org

Symposium Participants Discover Valuable Connections between YAV's Educational Resources and their Work in the Classroom on March 7th

Norfolk, VA - The Old Dominion University Early Childhood Symposium, sponsored by PNC Bank's PNC Foundation, will take place on the Norfolk Campus of Old Dominion University on March 07, 2014. The annual event will focus on the theme of Responsive Pedagogy: Teaching, Documenting, and Learning from Children's Work. The symposium will feature representatives from local museums and arts-based organizations including Cindy Aitken, Education Director, and Michael Kerry Williams, Executive Director, of Young Audiences of Virginia.

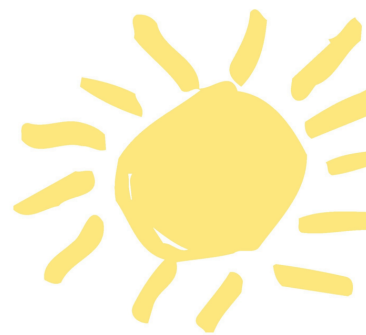

"Arts Integrated learning and teaching is the core of our work. We know children retain higher quantities of information when the work is relevant and connections are made to real experiences, hence the arts. We are excited to work with educators and the ODU Early Childhood Symposium to teach in and through the arts." –Michael Kerry Williams, Executive Director of Young Audiences of Virginia.

This professional development event targets early childhood educators, administrators and supporters, allowing them the opportunity to participate in a day of learning and networking.

This year's symposium focuses on children's culture and art learning, allowing arts-based organizations, like Young Audiences of Virginia, to present how their programs in arts-integrated education improve the learning experience for students.

The Early Childhood Symposium at Old Dominion University will be held on Saturday, March 7, 2015 from 8:00 a.m. - 5:30 p.m. at Old Dominion University, Batten Arts & Letters Building, Norfolk, VA 23529. The event is $35.00 per person and hosted by the Virginia Early Childhood Policy Center and the Children's Learning and Research Center. For more information and to RSVP for the event, contact the Virginia Early Childhood Policy Center or click here.

Young Audiences Arts for Learning Virginia is the leading provider of quality arts-in-education programming in Virginia. We offer an array of arts performances and workshops grounded in the core curriculum, residencies for children of all ages, and professional development in arts-integration techniques that improve students' literacy skills, motivation to read, and ability to learn. We are dedicated to bringing innovation and imagination to education through the arts. 2015 is a year of celebration for Young Audiences of Virginia, marking 60 years of operation since the organization's humble beginnings in 1955. Young Audiences of Virginia is celebrating 60 years of operation throughout all of 2015. There will be several events and programs to commemorate the organization. More information on the 60th Anniversary can be found at yav.org. Young Audiences of Virginia is a 501(c)(3) not-for-profit

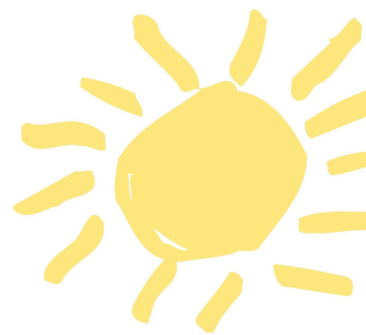

Recent Awards

Fiscal Year 2014-2015 Awards

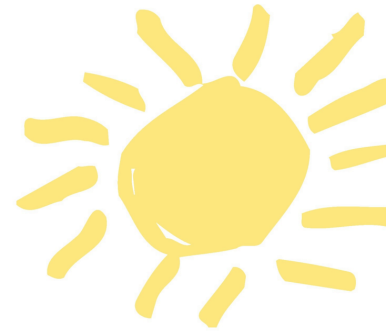

1. Yale Distinguished Music Education Partnership Award
2. Dominion Art Stars Award
3. Batten Foundation Challenge
4. Safe Harbor Award

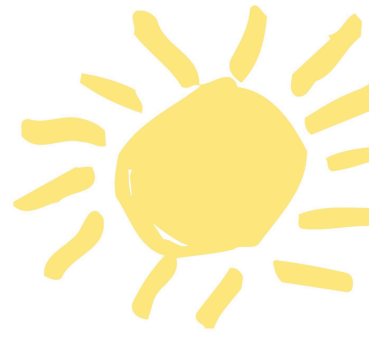

Photographs

Young Audiences Photo Albums

- Celebrate! YAV & VSO Gala
- Professional Development
- Dance4Life-Simonsdale Elementary School
- Dance4Life-Churchland Primary & Intermediate School
- Between the Lions K Readiness Residency: Via Goode
- Arts Are Wild
- Celebrate the Arts with the Children's Museum of Virginia
- Between The Lions K Readiness Residency: Cindy Aitken

Logos

Young Audiences of Virginia Logos

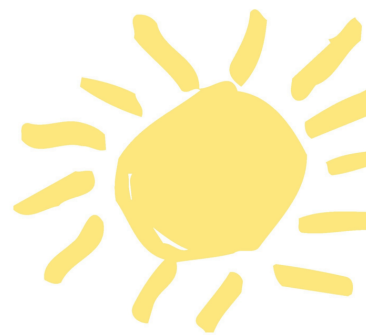

Young
Audiences
Arts for Learning
Virginia

Young
Audiences
Arts for Learning
Virginia

Other Resources

For more information, please feel free to visit:

Website

Facebook

Twitter

Instagram

